Linguistic/Verbal Intelligence

Are you interested in the spoken and written word?

Perhaps your primary intellectual gift is linguistic or verbal intelligence. If so, you are "word smart".

This intelligence includes a keen propensity toward spoken and written language, the ability to learn languages, and the capacity to use language to accomplish certain goals. This intelligence includes the ability to effectively use language to express yourself rhetorically or poetically or as a means to remember information.

Individuals with this intelligence are often told that they talk too much but actually, it's just a sign of their undeniable gift.

Those who cultivate this gift usually contribute to society as writers, poets, lawyers, teachers, public speakers, communications specialists and shine in careers where colorful and accurate language expressions are important.

If you use language to paint pictures, the world is waiting to hear what you have to say.
