Moral/Human Intelligence

Are you concerned with justice and the sanctity of life?

If so, you have a penchant for moral or human intelligence. You have empathy for others as you can easily take the perspective of another. You feel passionate about matters that concern the sanctity of human life. You also show an irreducible respect for people. You may find yourself in most any profession in that this gift expresses a range of human intelligences including personal, linguistic, logical, and spiritual. Please be certain that you are most appreciated in a variety of personal settings as well.

If you have moral/human intelligence, do not remain quiet. Your qualities such as compassion and attention to the well-being of others are needed to advocate on behalf of those among us who have not yet found their voice or verve.
